Patsy's Place

Transitional Home

A New Way of Life

Patsy Britting was one of the driving forces behind Sharing Hope when the ministry was first established in 1999. Patsy was passionate about witnessing to incarcerated women in our area and reflected God's love through her actions. Patsy and many other dedicated volunteers visited inmates regularly and provided services to the women in Potter and Randall County Jails as well as sent Bibles and study material. Patsy dreamed that one day additional support would be available to assist these women once they returned to our community. In 2006, Sharing Hope established a benevolence fund in honor of Patsy's work and dreams, for the purpose of providing emergency assistance to qualifying ex-offenders who endure extenuating circumstances on their way to establishing a new life, free of the negative influences of previous social structures. Our hope was that this fund would eventually assist us in establishing a transitional home.

Sharing Hope Ministry has now begun plans to provide a transitional house in Amarillo for recently released women who are returning to our community. Our goal is to provide a safe and stable Christian environment for women who have been active with Sharing Hope while incarcerated and have shown a desire to change their lives through a relationship with Christ. For the women who reside at Patsy's Place, they will learn a new way of life. In addition to Bible studies, the women will have classes on job training, interviewing, financial planning, budgeting, parenting, health and nutrition, other life skills and cognitive thinking. The program at Patsy's Place will provide participants with the skills, support and self-esteem necessary to re-enter our communities as competitive workers able to live independently, clean and sober.

Why is Patsy's Place Needed?

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice reports that without any assistance, nearly 80% of women will re-offend within 18 months of their release. However, if these women receive and participate in a faith-based program while incarcerated and in a faith-based aftercare program upon release, the recidivism rate has been reported to be as low as 38%.

Patsy's Place

Transitional Home

The incarcerated woman is typically a single mother, with little education and few job skills. Often times, she is recovering from an addiction and her incarceration is a direct result of her chemical dependency. Over half of the women in prison have suffered from either physical or sexual abuse, which in most cases occurred when they were children. Upon release from prison, these women may struggle to find a stable home that they can return to as they begin transitioning back into the community. Most released women are classified by the government as homeless as many need immediate assistance with shelter. Unfortunately, most of these women are released back into a community where they are ill-equipped to start a life free from drugs and crime. Statistics show that these women will return to crime if they cannot cope any other way.

I start my day running for my drug testing. Then I go see my children, show up for my training program, look for a job, go to a meeting (AA), and show up at my part time job. I have to take the bus everywhere, sometimes eight buses for four hours a day. If I fail any one of these things and my Parole Officer finds out, I am revoked. I am so tired that sometimes I fall asleep on my way home from work at 2 a.m. I don't mind working hard... that's part of my recovery. But this is a situation that is setting me up to fail. ~a 26 year old woman

There are many obstacles that normally face a released woman who is often overwhelmed with the basics. She must find adequate housing, a job, work to regain custody of her children, and participate in required treatment groups. The demands on these newly released women are immense. For many women this is done without the positive support of friends or family. The conditions surrounding them have not been resolved and in many cases are worse than before. These women have not received services to address underlying problems or to assist them in making changes. With no other support, many times the released woman will return to an abusive relationship and to her addictions as the only recourse to meet her financial obligations and to mask her physical and emotional pain.

Sharing Hope Ministry, Inc. has seen the growing need for aftercare for women who are released from incarceration and who return to our community. Our goal is to provide a transitional shelter located in Amarillo to provide a safe, stable, Christian environment. This will reduce criminal recidivism and alleviate chronic homelessness by providing both short-term and long-term housing, establishing mentoring relationships, equipping women with life skills, and assisting clients in securing stable employment to help them become self-supporting.

Many ex-offenders have already made the internal changes through establishing a relationship with God and truly desire to become a new person through Him. However, even those with the deepest commitment will endure the hardships of being released into a failing system. Sharing Hope Ministry's goal is to give women the resources to live a positive and productive life through Christ.

Give a Hand, Buy a Foot

Show a Woman a New Way to Live

Now there are several ways to show a hurting woman a new way to live in Christ. It's as easy as providing a piece of the house that will be the safe and stable Christian environment as she starts learning a new way to live, or by providing the Life Recovery Bible to incarcerated women.

With our “Give a Hand, Buy a Foot” program, you can help us provide Patsy's Place piece by piece. $50.00 will purchase a square foot of property that will provide a loving Christian home for these women who desire to re-enter our community as Godly and productive members. All donors will be acknowledged on a permanent display. Individuals or groups may wish to purchase an entire room for the house in their name or in honor of a loved one. Please feel free to contact the Sharing Hope office for more information about how you can be a founding member of the program that can change our community.

We've made giving even easier. Use the optional Bank Draft Authorization form and each month your designated donation will be deducted from your account without the effort of writing and mailing a check.

EXPANDING OUR BORDERS!

Sharing Hope Ministry welcomes South Dakota and West Virginia to our area of service. Correctional facilities from these two states have been approved to receive Sharing Hope Ministry services. We are now providing the Life Recovery Bible and studies to women in twelve states!

Our expansion is possible through those who support Sharing Hope financially, and by the volunteers that give their time to send each woman a Life Recovery Bible, studies and Christian words of encouragement.

TICKETS ARE NOW AVAILABLE FOR THE SHARING HOPE QUILT

The Sharing Hope Quilt is finished and ready for display. Donations of $2.00 each or 6 tickets for $10.00 will give you a chance to win this fabulous quilt.

The quilt was assembled by five very talented volunteers, Bonnie Green, Carolyn Holmes, Linda Stafford, Carolyn Williams and Annette Watkins. We also want to thank Janice Johnson for providing some of the supplies. This quilt is a stunning Christmas themed quilt with many special touches like appliqué and embellishments.

Tickets are available through the office and we are asking our volunteers to help sell tickets to friends, family, church and business associates. Come by the office to pick up tickets and a picture of the quilt.

HELP NEEDED

A volunteer with a strong back is needed. We need someone who can carry the boxes of Bibles from the garage to our workroom and then stock our shelves. The shelves need to be stocked about every two to three weeks. Give us a call if you can help
